you at any stage of the writing process. In addition to the important writing instruction that occurs in the classroom and during professors' o ce hours, the Center o ers another site for learning about writing. All students are encouraged to make use of these important services.

• NOTE: Once a student has received credit, including transfer credit, for a course, credit may not be received for any course with material that is equivalent to it or is a prerequisite for it.